

About the author

Saleh Begh is a London (England) based solicitor and attorney specializing in UK Immigration and English family law.

Saleh focuses on complicated cases and challenging applications, which often require extensive legal representation during the application stage, preparation of cases for the Immigration Tribunal, as well as protracted legal challenges with the UK Home Office and their notorious and persistent visa rejections.

Saleh's Family Law practice involves handling a wide range of family and children-related matters, including marriage, divorce, financial remedy applications, and child custody. There are frequent overlaps between family and immigration laws, and occasionally, there may be a criminal law dimension too. He has extensive experience in all three areas, which provides him with important foresight and insights, although he does not currently defend clients in criminal cases.

Since July 9th, 2012, when the current set of Immigration rules were introduced by the UK government, Saleh and his team have made thousands of applications under Appendix FM and other routes, such as the EU Settlement Scheme. This extensive experience has provided them with intricate knowledge and a unique ability to assess the Home Office's position and attitudes, which may not be found in published texts or tribunal decisions.

Furthermore, Saleh has previous career experience in Information Technology, giving him a knack for precise, concise, and effective digital bundle preparation and presentation. With his travels to over 40 countries, having met clients from around the world, together with his ability to understand five languages, he is very familiar with cultural differences and sensitivities. He takes pride in his can-do attitude and problem-solving skills, never shying away from challenges, especially those related to human rights and family life.

Over the years, Saleh has assisted hundreds of families in overcoming their obstacles and achieving a better life in the UK. His goal is to make a difference and provide help wherever possible.

Free Initial Consultation

This guide is produced in association with Wafi Solicitors, who are offering a FREE initial overview consultation session to evaluate the feasibility of your spouse visa application. This consultation is highly recommended to ensure that your application is viable. Additionally, a comprehensive paid consultation will assist in formulating a strong application that not only increases the likelihood of success but also minimizes stress and delays.

Full consultation which has a fixed fee of £360 will be offered at £99 (70% off). There is also a wide range of service options available depending on your case needs and circumstances. The legal fee for supported spouse visa application starts at £800. You may also be able to pay the agreed fee in instalments.

Full representation and super priority service options are offered at competitive rates. Call +442071935178 or email saleh@wafi.co.uk now to get started.

How to use this guide

As immigration laws and rules change periodically, it is important to consider your options based on the most up-to-date information available. What may be suitable for one applicant may not work for another, even if the situations appear identical from your perspective.

There are several factors that can contribute to a refusal of an application, and each applicant's circumstances are unique. Subjective elements, such as a genuine relationship, borderline misrepresentations, a complex immigration history including previous refusals, or other considerations, can result in two seemingly identical applications submitted simultaneously having different outcomes. Use this book as a guide to understand the concepts, procedures, and steps involved, keeping in mind that the information provided is not intended as legal advice and may not be suitable for your specific circumstances and factual background.

BUY THE FULL GUIDE

(Full guide which includes pages 14 to 88 will be sent to you via email)

UK Spouse Visa Guide for Morocco is intended for informational purposes only. The information contained in this guide does not in any way create a solicitor-client relationship and does not constitute legal advice whatsoever. Please consult professionals for advice appropriate to your situation and circumstances before proceeding with any application or relocation projects. Use at your own discretion as this guide does not guarantee success or positive visa outcome.